ONE DEAD AND SEVEN INJURED

Accident at the Wandamere Motordrome at Salt Lake—Harry G. Davis Victim of Speed Madness—Men and Women Spectators at Races Are Injured.

Harry G. Davis, motorcyclist, last night received injuries from which he died within two hours, and at least seven other persons received injuries at the Wandamere motordrome at Salt Lake last night at 8:40 o'clock, when the machine ridden by Davis leaped the track and crashed into the crowd.

Davis lost control of his machine during the "warm up" preliminary to the second heat of the four-mile professional race. Before the eyes of more than 5,000 spectators he was hurled against an electric light pole with such violence that his skull was fractured, the light demolished and the pole snapped off about fifteen feet above its base. The fatally injured rider rolled down the sloping side of the track and the machine with an almost incredible momentum dashed into one of the most crowded sections of the grandstand, a box occupied by a dozen men and women.

Following are the victims of the latest tragedy in Salt Lake:

Dead:
 Harry G. Davis, aged 23, 634 South Fourth East, died in L. D. S. hospital at 11 o'clock.

Injured:
 Miss Elizabeth Shephard, 44 South Sixth East street, right arm broken just above wrist; treated at emergency hospital and sent to L. D. S. hospital.
 Charles L. Rollins, aged 40, traveling salesman, staying at Lenox hotel, chin and lips cut and chest badly bruised; treated at emergency hospital and removed to quarters at Lenox hotel.

Grace Cunningham, 1203 Seventh East street, jaw broken and back of head cut; taken to St. Mark's hospital; condition serious; still unconscious.
 Unidentified man—Upper jaw broken, chin split open, badly bruised; taken to St. Mark's hospital; condition serious; still unconscious.

Miss Elizabeth Jensen, 1229 Eighth East street, nose broken, cut on arm; taken to St. Mark's hospital.
 Mrs. Annie Carter, 734 East First South street; bruised and cut; taken to Judge Mercy hospital; condition not serious.

Miss Elva Thoresen, 930 South Eleventh street, bruised; taken to Judge Mercy hospital and then home.
 It was before the eyes of his mother, Mrs. Lena V. Davis, who occupied one of the boxes, that the rider went to his death. In company with F. M. Duckworth and Oden Johnson, he circled the track, getting up speed and waiting for the signal gun of the starter.

It was only a few weeks ago that the mother of Henry Potter saw her son killed in almost a similar manner upon the same track during the progress of a motorcycle race.

Collides With Other Rider.
 Davis, according to the statements of eyewitnesses, brushed the right arm of Duckworth. His machine wavered for a moment and then he shot up the track in a straight line, seemingly having lost all control of his motorcycle.

When Davis' machine got beyond his control for the instant that he brushed the arm of Duckworth, the vast assemblage was thrilled with fear for he was riding at the rate of at least fifty miles an hour and was attempting to pass Duckworth. Apparently without power to right his motorcycle he sat helpless and, without slackening speed, dashed straight up the side of the motordrome toward the grandstand. A pole in front of box Q was directly in his path, but he apparently was unable even to make an effort to change the course of his machine. One of the witnesses of the accident said: "It would seem that no one could have drawn a more direct line than Davis took toward the pole that he struck squarely and which caused the tragedy."

Hurled in the Air.
 When the crash came Davis was thrown from the machine. He hit the electric light with great force, breaking it into fragments and cutting off the current, throwing the park for the time being into a darkness which added to the panic and confusion.

Davis slid along the top of the track for twenty or thirty feet and then rolled down to the bottom of the speedway, where he lay unconscious.
 The motorcycle crashed through the railing and into the box, injuring seven seriously or painfully and others slightly. Some were cut by the flying fragments of the electric light globe.

Davis, who had been laid on the cushion of the rear seat of an automobile, was the last one to be removed from the scene of the accident. He was covered with a sheet of canvas and carried by his fellow riders on the cushion to the ambulance which waited outside the arena.

When the accident occurred and during the panic many women swooned.
 Emergency calls were immediately sent to the police department and to the several hospitals. The "greyhound" was dispatched from the police station and ambulances from the L. D. S. the Judge Mercy and St. Mark's hospitals. Mr. Rollins and Miss Shephard were taken to the emergency hospital at the police station, where Dr. B. Sprague set Miss Shephard's broken arm and rendered first aid to Mr. Rollins, who was suffering from numerous facial injuries.

When she revived from the influence of the chloroform, Miss Shephard smiled and said: "I'm not going to die. It's only a broken arm and I had one of those before." Then she added: "It came so quickly I can't tell you much. The riders were going like lightning. Then the machine crashed into the box in which we sat. It struck me first, but not squarely; if it had I guess I would not be here. I don't remember much more, except the confusion and the crowd and the terrible pain."

Mr. Rollins was still somewhat dazed from the effect of the shock and his injuries. His jaws were bruised and his lips so lacerated that it was difficult for him to articulate. "I don't know how it happened," he said. "I saw the machine going. I was enjoying myself. I turned my head for a moment to speak to my friend, then I was struck; that is all I can remember."

Home Treatment for Tuberculosis

Consumptive patients need no longer dread either the fate that formerly overtook all sufferers from lung trouble, or costly and inconvenient journeys far from home to other climates or to some expensive sanatorium. Hundreds are now staying quietly at home, restoring themselves to health at the cost of a few bottles of medicine. Here is one who speaks from experience:

220 S. 4th St., Colwyn (Darby), Pa.
 "Gentlemen: For four years I was troubled with cough, which gradually became worse. A physician pronounced my case Consumption, and I was ordered to a Consumptive hospital. My nephew would not allow me to go until I had tried Eckman's Alternative. Before I had taken the medicine three weeks I commenced getting well. I am in excellent health now and have been completely cured for ten years. I strongly recommend it."

(Signed) (MRS.) MARY WASSON.
 Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by R. M. McIntyre, T. H. Carr, Culley Drug Co., The Marshall Drug Co., The Cave Drug Store, and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

HUNTSVILLE HAS GLORIOUS FOURTH

Huntsville held the most successful Fourth of July celebration in the history of the town Thursday, at which time it invited in all the people from the surrounding settlements to help make the eagle scream. The celebration was held under the supervision of the Huntsville Improvement club. The town was gaily decorated with bunting and flags, and a big crowd was on hand early in the day to assist in the celebration.

The principal oration of the day was delivered by Samuel G. Dye, clerk of Weber county. Patriotic selections were rendered by the brass band under the direction of William Burrows. In the parade Grace Smith won great applause as the Goddess of Liberty. Effie Allen, dressed as Betty Ross, and Belle Grow, representing the state of Utah, received a generous round of applause as the parade wound its way through the streets.

The following program took place in the Huntsville tabernacle:
 Prayer..... Capt. A. A. Berlin
 Song, "America"..... Choir
 Address of Welcome.....
 P. L. Orth, Sec'y Boosters' Club

MINES LAID FOR

El Paso, July 5.—Reliable information was received here last night that hundreds of dynamite mines are buried in the streets and houses in the city of Chihuahua in preparation for the reception of the federals. They have been laid there they will explode upon the slightest contact with Americans and foreigners who know of the location of the explosives intend to remain within their residences until the arrival of General Huerta who has been apprised by spies of the spots where the mines are concealed.

MURDEROUS MANIA ENDS FOUR LIVES

Walla Walla, Wash., July 5.—Seized with a murderous mania late yesterday, Sergeant John Proctor of the One Hundred and Twenty-sixth company, coast artillery at Fort Worden, Port Townsend, Wash., shot and killed his former wife, his son and daughter here and then turned the gun upon himself, dying an hour and a half later from the wound in his head.

The shooting occurred in a lodging house, of which Mrs. Proctor had been proprietress since her divorce last December. The dead:
 J. PROCTOR, aged 40.
 ADA PROCTOR, divorced wife, aged 28.
 NELLIE PROCTOR, daughter, aged 14.
 EVERETT PROCTOR, son, aged 9.

Mother and son were asleep in the mother's room, and it is believed the crazed father killed them while asleep. The daughter fled from the room into that one rented by the father, where he later sent a bullet through her brain and took his life. Proctor, a gun sifter, obtained a month's leave of absence about two weeks ago. He came to Walla Walla and put up at his former wife's lodging house, paying room rent as a regular patron. He and his daughter took dinner at a downtown restaurant last night, and afterwards he sent the girl home while he mingled with the crowds on the streets. Proctor used an automatic revolver, and but four shots were fired. Mrs. Proctor has been in constant fear of her husband since their divorce according to friends.
